Before I started doing kick boxing, I was always bored, and I had nothing that I was good at. I was, also, out of shape. Now I've been a member of Paul's kick boxing team for almost two years and I've been all over performing with them. When I first started to do kick boxing my body hurt like broken, but now I am a lot stronger. I can carry more than 100 pounds easily.

I still remember the day I participated in Paul's kick boxing team. That day, Paul walked into our Gym class. He was testing us without we even knowing it. So, while we played indoor soccer, he watched the way we ran and our other athletic abilities. Our teacher introduced us to Paul because they were friends. He told us about kick boxing. Then he called some names but mine wasn't on the list. I didn't understand why not. I played it cool but inside I was hurt. Then Paul said "Oh, is Adam here?" "Yes" I said. Comprehension 2

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

When people build their houses, the first thing they have to think about is the weather. If they live in a place where there is much rain, the most important thing is to keep out the water. If there is sunshine for much of the year, houses will have to keep out heat. In very cold places, the most important thing is to stay warm.

People also have to think about the available materials. Houses around the world are built of different materials. These materials can be natural or made by people. Natural materials are mud, stones, trees and other plants. Bricks, cement, and metal are materials made by people.

The appearance of the house tells us a lot about the weather condition in the country it belongs to. Rainy countries usually have houses with high hard roofs, so that the rain runs off. In snowy countries, houses have the same roofs. In hot places with little wood, people make mud bricks and build houses with them. These houses have thick walls to keep out the heat. Colours show different moods. Bright colours make us feel happy. Dark colours make us feel sad. The primary colours like red, yellow and blue can be mixed together to make different colours. Mixing two primary colours makes a secondary colour. The secondary colours are orange, green and violet. For example, orange is made by mixing yellow and red.

Colours have strong effects on our feelings, so colours are sometimes called hot, cold or neutral. Red and yellow are said to be hot colours because they make a room feel warmer and the walls seem nearer. We say that blue and green are cold because they give us the opposite feeling. A neutral colour does not seem to affect our feelings, like white and grey. Colour selection is very important because of its effect on size. White could be used to make a small room seem larger; however, dark blue could make a large one seem smaller.

IV. Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

Parrots are very intelligent birds. There are many kinds of them. Most parrots feed on seeds; others may eat fruit, nectar, flowers, or small insects. People like them for their beautiful colours, and because they can talk.

Unlike other birds, parrots can talk. They can copy human words and any sound they hear. Some people say that parrots can talk because they have big, thick tongues. Parrots do not usually know what they are saying when they talk. However, they know when to say some words like: "Hello" and "Goodbye".

Most parrots come from hot countries, but they can live anywhere. That's why sailors used to take parrots with them on long journeys. Perhaps another reason is that they wanted someone to talk to.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

Tigers are found in many countries of Asia, such as India and China. They are the largest of all the big cats. A grown tiger is about three metres long. Its beautiful colouring makes it one of the most magnificent animals.

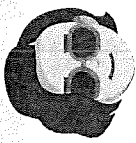

Unlike most cats, tigers are not afraid of water. They are often seen cooling themselves in it on hot days. During the rainy season when the rivers are flooded, tigers have been seen to spend their time there catching fish and turtles for food. They also go to water to look for weak animals. Tigers can cross a river easily because they are strong animals.

Tigers hunt in the forest. Their power enables them to feed on any animal. They pick young elephants to make up a large part of their diet. They also eat small animals such as rabbits and monkeys. Even crabs and insects like the locusts are eatable to tigers. Sometimes, tigers may kill farm animals or man when they are wounded or too old to hunt.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Many people love to eat fruits, but don't much care for vegetables. It is important for your body to eat both.

Did you know that the colour of insides and outsides of the fruits and vegetables can tell you what kind of vitamins are inside? Red fruits and vegetables are high in vitamin A and C. Vitamins A and C protect your body from illnesses. Eat more tomatoes, strawberries, and red peppers! Orange and yellow fruits are high in vitamin A as well. They are good for your eyes, skin, teeth, and bones.

Blue and purple fruits and vegetables contain vitamins that help fight cancer and keep your heart healthy. White and brown fruits and vegetables contain a lot of fiber. This can help keep your body working well and fat free. Apples may look red and green on the outside, but the white inside is where the fiber is found! Green fruits and vegetables are often high in vitamin K. They are good for your blood.

So, you can see how eating a rainbow of vegetables and fruits every day can help your body to be healthy and fit.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Although we still don't know how our sense of smell works, our love of perfume is very old. The Ancient Egyptians used to put perfumed oils in their hair. The oil found in Tutankhamen's tomb was still fragrant when it was opened 2.000 years after he'd been buried there. At feasts in Roman times, white birds with their wings covered in perfume, flew around the room so that the air was filled magnificently with a sweet scent.

In Paris there's a perfume museum called Osmotheque, which has an amazing 1.100 perfumes. Next to the museum, there is a school. Perfumers who make perfumes are taught there how to create new fragrances. There are only about 400 of them in the world. To make a single kind of perfume, you need between 400 and 500 ingredients, which are often costly.

How do you decide whether a perfume is right for you? First, never buy a perfume that you haven't tried on your skin. What smells nice on a friend may smell terrible on you. Secondly, avoid heat and light. It's important to keep perfumes in a dark place at a temperature of no higher than 15 °C.

Every year, I spend part of my holidays on my grandparents' farm. We live in Boston, so we can't visit them that often. Spending my summer holidays with them is a great opportunity to do things I normally never do. My two cousins are also there, and we all sleep on the tree house my grandfather built for us when we were little kids. In the morning, we ride our bikes through the mountains and valleys, free from the city traffic. Other mornings we just love to explore nature and so we go for long walks. That's when we come back home with a bucket full of wild berries which are very tasty.

Of course, we all help out on the farm. I prefer feeding the sheep, chicken and cows while my brother is keen on fruit picking and cleaning the stable. Our cousins are more interested in gardening with the help of our grandmother.

In the afternoon, we love to take a nap so that we can stay up late at night in our amazing tree bedroom, playing cards, board games or just talking and laughing. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Everything that is alive needs energy. All animals get the energy they need from food. Think about the human body as an amazing machine. It can do all kinds of activities for us. Food is the fuel that helps keep the amazing machine running.

Plants use sunlight to make their own food. Animals are not able to do that. Some of them eat plants, while others eat other animals as meat. Some animals and people eat both plants and animals.

Since plants make their own food using sunlight, the sun's energy is found in plants. The sun's energy is very strong. It loses a lot of its strength by the time it goes into a plant.

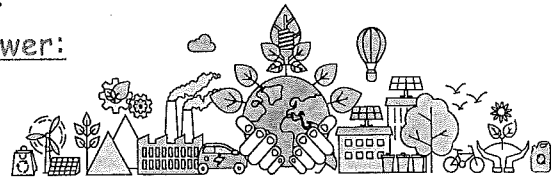

When we eat plants, we get more of the sun's energy than when we eat animals. That's why it is good to eat fruits and vegetables. When an animal eats a plant, the energy is less strong. The animal also uses its energy to find the plant to eat.

Like a car that must be filled with gasoline, living things have to eat again and again. Instead of gasoline, living things use food as fuel.

- a- Cars use sunlight as fuel.
b- Plants use sunlight to make their own food.
c- Human bodies use sunlight to make their food.
d- Animals use sunlight to make their own food.

5. Humans get more of the sun's energy:

- a- when they eat plants. b- when they sleep more.
c- when they eat animals. d- when they exercise more.

6. What is the writer's purpose of writing this text?

- a- To tell how machines work.
b- To compare plants to animals.
c- To explain that the sun's energy is very strong.
d- To show that all living things and machines need energy.

B) Answer the following questions:

7. When does the sun's energy lose its strength?

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

When we were young, we learnt that tigers and sharks are dangerous animals. We might be scared of them because they are big and powerful. As we get older, we learn that sometimes the most dangerous animals are also the smallest ones. Mosquitoes are small insects which kill a lot of people every year. They are active at night or at dusk and dawn, and rest during the day. Male mosquitoes usually live for 10 days or less. Female mosquitoes can live about six to eight weeks and feed on animal blood. They need this blood to live and produce eggs. Female mosquitoes can lay up to 300 eggs at a time. They can carry diseases from one person to another very easily. Malaria and yellow fever are diseases carried by mosquitoes.

Many scientists are working to find ways to kill mosquitoes. Mosquitoes have many natural enemies like bats, frogs, birds and some fish. Bringing more of these animals into places where they live might help to cut down the number of mosquitoes in that area. This is a natural way, but it doesn't always work very well. Mosquitoes can also be killed with poisons or sprays. Even though these sprays kill mosquitoes, they may also harm other plants or animals.

Some people think you need a kitchen to cook dinner. However, you can make easy, delicious meals outside over a campfire.

One easy campfire meal is baked potato. You wrap the potato in tin foil and put it under the flames in hot ashes. After an hour, the heat from the fire will cook the potato. Open up the package and you have a baked potato!

It is also easy to roast food over a campfire. You can put hot dogs or sausages on sticks and hold them in the fire. The flames will cook the meat. For dessert, you can roast marshmallows on sticks. Hold them near the fire until they turn golden. But don't leave anything in the fire too long, or it will turn completely black and taste like ashes.

To make these meals, you don't even need to know anything about cooking. Some people say the food tastes better when cooked and eaten outside. Furthermore, there are no dishes to wash afterwards.
